

Benjamin Pyles serves as the Director of Athletic Percussion at the University of Texas at San Antonio. He studied Music Education at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and Lamar University, with a primary emphasis in percussion.

With more than 20 years of experience as a performer, educator, and designer, Benjamin has worked with many of the nation's premier marching ensembles, including Glassmen, Bluecoats, Crossmen, Spirit of Atlanta, Colts, and Mandarins Drum and Bugle Corps. He is a founding member of Monarch Independent, where he continues to serve as an active member of the design team.

In addition to his work at UTSA, Benjamin is a percussion instructor at Ronald Reagan High School and serves as the Director of Education for Percussion and Winds with the Texas Educational Colorguard Association (TECA).

Benjamin is a proud educational artist for Innovative Percussion, Evans Drumheads, SABIAN Cymbals, and Mapex & Majestic Percussion.